

Steps for booking a destination wedding

1. Pick your wedding date. Decide if you are OK with guests staying the entire time (some couples will move to a different hotel as a honeymoon, after the wedding)
2. Narrow down location according to budget, and interests (what is important to you... scenery, cost, beach, color of sand, night life). Most people who travel to a destination will stay 4 nights. We price our packages based on 4 nights, but have the option for additional nights.
3. Select hotel based on value and recommendations (price and wedding/group amenities. Most resorts will offer a complimentary wedding package, depending on how many rooms you book).
4. Make your selection (during this time a contract is drawn up from the hotel, and you will have 2-3 weeks before the deposit is due). Once contract is in process from the hotel, Cornerstone Travel will work on your own personal website (complete with pricing, and detailed information on your special day). During this time, you should be working on your guest list and email an engagement (or any) picture to us to personalize your site!
5. Cornerstone Travel will email you a proof of your invitation. Once you give your OK, we will print and send out.
6. Cornerstone Travel will send you a contract, based on the hotel policies. We need this contract signed and turned back the day prior to deposit being due.
7. Guests who do not join by the deposit due date are not guaranteed to have the same price. You can choose to hold back some additional rooms (refundable) up to a certain date (listed on your contract). Otherwise at the time someone new is ready to book, we will do our best to try and get the same pricing.
8. Wedding coordinators will send out a wedding contract that also needs to be signed and sent back. This contract will list important deadlines. Your coordinator will usually contact you 1-2 months prior to your wedding. Upon arrival you will meet with your coordinator and finalize the details.
